What are some important qualities of a good school teacher?

Sp Teachers that we meet can be very different: kind, strict, creative, boring and so on. But what are the most valuable qualities of a good teacher?

First of all, teachers should be interested in what they teach us. For example, in my school, our history teacher was telling us about the Great French Revolution. I myself don't really like history, but because our Sp teacher was interested in the topic, everybody else also became interested in it.

Secondly, the teacher's main goal should be not just telling the students the information, but also helping them understand it. If a student can't understand the first topic, he would not be able to understand the second one. And the last, but not the least, quality of a good teacher is his ability to understand and communicate with children. A teacher can be interested in the topic, always ready to help, but if he can't communicate with children, then the children would even count him very good. E.g. Professor Bins from Harry Potter

He knew all of the topics perfectly well, ^{Pen} but since he never communicated with his students, everyone hated his classes.

And another example from the same book: Professor Lupin. Nearly everybody loved his ^{own} classes because:

- type {
1. He was interested in the topic.
 2. He was always ready to help.
 3. He could easily communicate with children.

These three points, in my opinion, are the most important qualities of a good teacher. (237)
