22nd century fashion.

Today world is full with clothing brands - Adidas, New Balance, Nike, etc., etc., etc. But did you think about future clothing fashion?

In my opinion, our clothes in next century will be full with gadgets, from calling a taxi from your cap without any smartphone, to a magnetic field, which can protect us at any moment. I even suggest that the story "Invisible Man" will become real!

We will need all these functions in the future, as lots of new things and new technologies are invented every day. Cars, weapons and other things which can bring harm can be helpless to magnetic fields.

In conclusion, I'd like to say that our life will change in a good way, and Invisible policeman can catch robbers red-handed and keep us safe, people would be protected. But the coin has another side: I think these super clothes will be very expensive, so you can meet a person who will have these clothes in future only once in a blue moon. But I wish everybody in future to have these inventions (if they will be of course).
