For sure, fashion rules are always changing. But, have you ever wondered what will clothes look like in 100 years later?

Without doubts in the 22nd century people will be wearing something charming and at the same time convenient. Personally I imagine both women and men wearing bright, colourful clothes in which it would be comfortable to do anything. People will definitely discover new unique professions and it would be wonderful if you go to your job in the clothes that you just recently put on to hang out with friends, but you are ready to work in it. This way you can save a lot of time.

In this case such clothes will be different from ours with it unusual materials and special designs. And certainly women and men will be able to wear clothes that they wish and no one will stop them.

This topic can be discussed for a long time, but the main thing is that clothes in the 22nd century will be fabulous and universal.
